If Majority of Voters Favor Popular Election the General Assembly Will Be Asked to Act.

After fixing Wednesday, August 31, as the date for the municipal primary election and adopting entrance fees to be assessed candidates, the subcommittee of the city democratic-executive committee Wednesday night voted unanimously to include on the ballot a referendum on the question of electing all heads of city departments by the people.

Committeeman J. P. Wall moved to exclude the police, fire and sanitary chiefs, but his motion didn't even get a second. "The fire department is all right," said Councilman J. J. Jarvis, of the eighth ward, "but as for the police and sanitary departments, they are a joke. We all know the police de-

Mrs. Paul H. Gilbert, member from the city at large on the committee, declared that she did not believe in "these 99-year jobs," and Committeeman Paul Lancaster, of the fourth ward, asserted that he believed the people, and not the police commissioners, ought to elect the Action by Ivey.

The resolution was introduced by Committeeman Alt Ivey, of the third ward. He said he is convinced that the people want to elect their own representatives, and if this is their wish, they ought to be given the right to express it at the ballot box.

If the majority of the voters favor taking the election of these municipal officers into their hands, then the necessary charter amendments would be asked of the general assembly. Mr. Wall joined in favor of the Ivey resolution and the vote was unanimous.

Among the department heads not now elected by popular vote are the police, fire and sanitary chiefs, the city clerk, the city tax assessors, the purchasing agent, superintendent of Grady hospital, superintendent of Bette Hill sanatorium,

The primary date was fixed as August 31 after Mayor Key appeared before the committee and suggested an early date in order that the referendum to increase the ad valorem tax rate to $1.50 might be voted on at the same election, in the event the measure is passed by the Georgia senate, where it is now pending. It has already passed the house.

Must Have Election.

In the bill is a proviso stating that an election must be called by the council within thirty days after adoption of the measure. The mayor said the senate is expected to act favorably this week or the early part of next, and asked the committee to co-operate so as to make the election.

LEGISLATION TAX IS PLANNED

In order to have constitutional limitations and exemptions embodied in it the state income tax bill was referred by the senate appropriation committee to a subcommittee of five Wednesday afternoon.

Senator Walker, of the eighteenth, chairman of the appropriations committee, is to be one of the members of the subcommittee and announced that he had named the other four Thursday morning. This committee of five is to confer with the governor and the state tax commissioner in its efforts to work out a limitation on the amount of tax to be levied and to place exemptions in the measure.

Practically the entire appropriation committee expressed themselves as being in favor of a state income tax to take the place of the present ad valorem system, but declared that such a measure should have a limitation on the rate of the tax.

The senate appropriation committee held its first meeting Wednesday by it at the beginning of the year of not passing any important legislation until next session.

The same committee also recommended to pass a bill by Senator Walker, of the eighteenth, in the state, collecting money for the state, turn the money collected over to the state treasury, without first deducting their commission.

Senator Walker told the committee that it was the present practice of the state to deduct their commission before turning money collected over to the state. This practice he declared he had as no record could be kept of the amount of the commissions paid the agents.

Senator Fleming, of the tenth, on behalf of the committee, congratulated Senator Walker on his measure and said this is the best business bill for the state that has been introduced this session.

WILL SELL TAGS TO BIG CROWDS OF AUTO OWNERS

Plans to take care of large crowds of automobile owners who will purchase the new tags for the last half of the year have been completed by Charles Cook, cashier of the motor vehicle department in the office of Secretary of State S. G. McDaniel. The price of licenses will drop to one-half of the full price on August 1.

Many persons buying automobiles in the next few days will wait until August 1 to buy tags while many other owners have been using dealers' licenses until the county board of assessors (General agriculture No. 2) the measure repeals the tax equalization law.

$200 FINE IS IMPOSED IN PROHIBITION CASE

Charged with having a quart of whiskey concealed in his garage on South Maynard avenue, J. J. Barfield was fined $200 in federal court Wednesday morning—just about two hours after his arrest. Barfield was arrested and arraigned before United States Commissioner W. C. Carter, who bound him over to the grand jury. Instead of waiting for grand jury action, the district attorney's office filed a motion for a bill of criminal information against the defendant, and Barfield at once appeared before Judge S. H. Sibley and entered a plea of guilty.

Weather Critics Go Into Reverse, Says Sky Prophet

There's only one thing in the world more erratic than the weather, and that's human nature, according to the views of the man who dishes up daily the brand of weather Atlanta is to enjoy or endure.

"Only a short time ago," the sky prophet declares, "everybody was growling over the heat and drought and praying for rain. The weather slowed down business according to the merchant and the general business leader; ruined the crops, according to the farmer; burned up the green on golf courses, according to the loafer, and 'played whaley' in general with everything."

Then when a merciful providence answered the petitions of thousands of discontented weather critics and sent rain, they all began to howl and cry for more. The rain made business impossible, according to the merchant and general business leader; washed away crops, according to the farmer; made golf greens a sea of mud, according to the loafer, and "played whaley" generally with everything.

"But after all's said," he continued, "we're not in such a bad fix. This month has been a very hot month, indeed, but the early crop season was excellent and rain before very great damage was done. July's excess of rainfall over the same period last year is .07 inches, but, on the other hand, the deficiency in rainfall for the year, as compared to last year, is 7.11 inches. So you can see that we're having a reasonable season after all, and lots of the calamity howling would be done if we didn't have any weather at all."

Despite the fact that he voiced his regrets before making public his prediction for Thursday, the weather man announced that the elements are in such a condition that showers for the day are imminent.

ILLITERACY FUND OFFERED GEORGIA

Offers to raise $10,000 from private sources to be used in carrying on the work of the Georgia Illiteracy Commission if the legislature will appropriate $10,000 for this work were submitted Wednesday to President Herbert Clay, of the state senate, and Speaker Cecil Neill, of the house of representatives, by C. J. Haden, vice president of the commission.

Mr. Haden offered, in addition, to raise the $10,000 from private sources in full before any appropriation be used. In his letter Mr. Haden said that in addition to the appropriation of 1919 of $15,500 made by the legislature for this work the Georgia Illiteracy Commission raised an equal sum. With this limited resource, supplemented by volunteer services of the public school superintendents and teachers and patriotic private co-operation approximately 20,000 people were taught to read and write in Georgia. In making his proposal to raise the $10,000 to continue this work Mr. Haden said:

"If the present legislature will appropriate even as much as $10,000 with the condition that before any part of this appropriation shall be used, as much as $10,000 in money or bona fide solvent private subscriptions shall have first been obtained, our commission will undertake to secure these subscriptions."

Mr. Haden declared that apart from all other considerations the enormous value to Georgia of a high place in the scale of literacy would warrant a liberal appropriation.

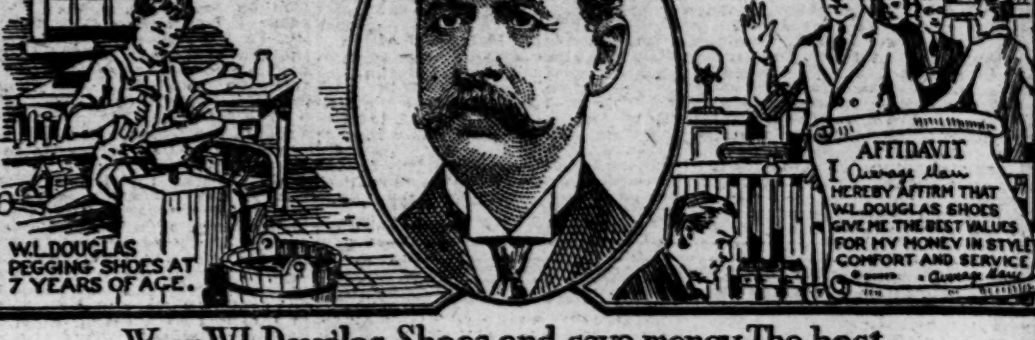

"With so great a number still left in Georgia groping their way in the half-blindness of illiteracy it would seem that while we provide large sums for higher education this very small amount might be spent for these unfortunates, even in the midst of our business depression," Mr. Haden said in the letters. He asked that the matter be referred to the proper committee.

Woman's Committee Meets At Chamber of Commerce

The committee having charge of the nomination and election of the executive committee of the department of women's affairs of the Atlanta Chamber of Commerce, met Wednesday afternoon at the Chamber of Commerce.

The work and duties of this committee were explained. Mrs. M. P. Tass, chairman of the committee, presided. Those present were: Mrs. M. P. Tass, chairman; Mrs. B. M. Hood, Mrs. C. B. Dowman, Miss John Bowie, Miss Ada Booth, Miss Jessie Muse, C. E. Robertson, J. C. Robinson.

Rules Adopted. The following rules were adopted covering the nomination and election in accordance with the by-laws of the department of women's affairs: 1. Each member is entitled to nominate eight members for the executive committee. 2. Members shall vote by mail or in person, by secret ballot, and voting shall be declared on July 15. No member shall cast more than one vote.

A primary nominating election shall be held on Wednesday, July 27th, but votes may be cast at any time prior to that date. At 6 p. m. shall be counted.

Each member shall bear the signature of the member voting. The sixteen members receiving the highest number of votes in the primary shall be declared nominated and on Friday, August 5th, the final election shall be held. The eight members receiving the highest number of votes in the final election shall be declared elected to serve as the executive committee.

The four receiving the highest number of votes shall serve through 1922 and the remaining four through 1921.

A preliminary meeting of the Forestry congress committee, just prior to the formal opening of the Southern Forestry congress convening here this week, took place at the Georgia Landowners' association, when a number of speakers told of the work of the congress and its meaning. These included J. S. Holmes, state forester of North Carolina; Joseph Hyde Rorison, state forester of the North Carolina geological and economic survey; Chapel Hill, N. C.; Donnell H. Stone, chairman of the Georgia committee of the Southern Forestry congress; and others.

Mr. Albert E. Thornton, president of the City Federation of Women's Clubs; Miss Alice Baxter, state chairman of natural resources for the State Federation of Women's Clubs; Mrs. Robert T. Daniel, Mrs. Lottie Bell Wiley, representing the American Forestry association, and also members of the Georgia committee, Mrs. R. C. Orr, of Athens, and others were present.

Mr. Stone, chairman of the Georgia committee, complimented the women highly for their interest in the forestry effort, and urged that the general public attend the meetings of the congress for their educational value.

Visitors at Wren's Nest. The Wren's Nest was open yesterday afternoon from 5 to 6:30 o'clock, in compliment to visiting delegates from the United States.

Mrs. Julia Dillon, Forestry Expert, Here for Congress

Mrs. Julia Lester Dillon, of Sumter, S. C., author and an expert in forestry and flowers, is here for the Southern Forestry congress. Mrs. Dillon, who is on the program of the congress, recently published a book, "The Blossom Circle of the Year," which is meeting with much favor among lovers of the flower garden.

"Women are undertaking the work of planting school gardens, organizing garden clubs, are landscape gardening and doing other work of this character, and I am offering them a plan whereby a circle of the blossoms of our section may follow the year-round," said Mrs. Dillon.

Many other leading club women of the state and of this section are in attendance upon the convention, and the various women's organizations of the city are urged to attend the sessions, which are very interesting.

Mrs. Albert E. Thornton, president of the Atlanta City Federation, requests every woman in the city who is interested in the work and plans of forestry, to be present at the meetings of the congress. The purpose of the congress is to bring together the members of the City Federation Clubs, the Atlanta Women's club, Atlanta chapter, D. A. R.; Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R.; Atlanta chapter, U. D. C.; the Daughters of 1812, Reviewers' club; chamber of commerce, Secretaries' club, Ad Men's club, Rotarians, Kiwanis, and other women's club and other organizations.

Benefit Ball Game.

At an important meeting held at the chamber of commerce yesterday, representatives from the Atlanta Women's club, Lions, Civilians and rehabilitated soldiers made an announcement concerning the ball game to be played at the ball park Saturday, July 30.

The purpose of the game which is to provide funds to purchase athletic equipment for the rehabilitation of soldiers, and to add to the fund toward building the auditorium for the Atlanta Women's club is receiving endorsement from all sides.

The chamber of commerce, through the press, asks that all its members receive cordially all soldiers selling tickets for the game and urge them to buy tickets. Linton K. Starr has offered to place the game through the city, and also in the street cars.

Mrs. John L. Cooper, chairman of tickets for the Women's club, distributed 2,000 tickets among the club committees; each member of the club committee will sell six tickets; and on Tuesday afternoon following a meeting of the various chairmen in the lobby of the Majestic hotel at 2 o'clock, selling force of twenty pretty girls and two hundred soldiers in military uniforms will start a week's canvass of the city working afternoon.

Complimentary tickets will be sent to everybody at the Soldiers' hospital on Tuesday afternoon, twenty-five to General Nash and staff at Fort McPherson.

The newly-formed committee on arrangements and stunts which is formed from the leading fun-makers of the city, State Federation of Women's Clubs, and the prominent delegates attending the congress, among these being Gifford Pinchot, W. B. Greeley, national forester; Colonel John A. Wallace, Jr., of Montgomery, Ala.; set of conservation; and others.

Pratt, chief of forest management; J. H. Holmes, of Chapel Hill, N. C., president of the Southern Forestry congress; E. O. Sieck, of Texas; W. Tyler, of Virginia; and William H. of Chicago, Ill., and other well-known authorities on forestry.

Among those who will assist in the entertainment will be the distinguished visitors will be the former presidents of the club, Mrs. R. K. Wiley, Mrs. Frank Smith, Mrs. A. McD. Wilson, Mrs. Bolling Jones, Mrs. Hamilton Douglas, Mrs. Woods White, Mrs. A. P. Cole, Mrs. I. N. McEachern, and Mrs. Irving Thomas, honorary president for life of the club.

For Miss Yancey. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Skelton Raine entertained at a swimming party and picnic yesterday afternoon at the Brookhaven club, in compliment to Miss Phoebe Yancey, of Glenridge.

Miss Yancey, the guest of honor, was accompanied by Miss Catherine Raine.

The large number of guests assembled at the Raine home about 5 o'clock, and after motoring to Brookhaven, enjoyed canoeing, swimming and tennis. A picnic supper was served on the lawn later.

The guests on this delightful occasion included Misses Catherine Sanders, Charlotte Meador, Katherine Dickey, Grace Goldsmith, Sara Holman, Katherine Murphy, Douglas Paine, Anne Grant, Emma Wilson, Louise Inman, Marianna Boyd, Jennie Johnson, Allen Carroll, Mary Carroll, Marian Smith, Mary Smith, Erskine Jarman, Emma Williamson, Martha Boynton, Mary Tompkins, Mary Sadler, Mary Parker, Blalock, Callie Orme, Mary Ballenger, Mary Moreley, Vincencia Allen, Misses Allen, Mary Parker, Theodore Owens, Henrietta Tupper, Sydney Clarke, Charles Northern, Edward W. This Interesting Pre-Inventory Sale of Summer Rugs

—The display is stimulating. "Grandmother" Rugs, for instance, recalling rugged pioneer days, when they built rugs for service, adding beauty later as a saucer, or condiment, not being an essential. But to Moderns beauty is an essential. How pat and appropriate for bungalow, hall or porch!

—Japanese Artcraft Rugs—woven with that ritualistic devotion to thoroughness that is Japanese—woven almost as carefully as gems are made.

—Rush and Grass Rugs, keeping some of the pungent freshness of salt water and sea air, where the grasses grew, billowed by ocean breezes.

—We are clearing them all, at deep reductions like this—

Japanese "Shiba" Rugs
—Fine rugs are these. Woven firmly and substantially to wear long. Good grasses are used—in fact, it's a most dependable rug! All colors.

by the committee, according to one of its members, but charges of a sensational nature concerning the escape of Powers and the action of certain officials will be disclosed, should the information now in the hands of J. W. Perryman be confirmed.

Mr. Davidson, it is understood, will be asked to explain reports to the effect that he and Judge Rainey, another member of the committee, did not know Powers had been confined to the penitentiary until he had escaped.

Judge T. E. Patterson, who was out of the city at the time the investigation of the escape by Chairman Davidson was made, has stated that he has never seen the letters recommending Powers, while Judge Rainey declared that he had read only one of them and knew the name of only a few persons of those attaching their signatures.

Chairman Davidson will be asked to explain why the letters have been kept in his possession and the committee will be asked to conduct an investigation at the farm in Milledgeville. Warden J. E. Smith will be questioned as well as other members of the official staff.

Neill and Clay Missing Chances In Committees

Value of Reforestation Shown by Tree Seedsman

Otto Katzenstein, well-known tree seedsman of Atlanta, is much interested in the Southern Forestry Congress, and looks for great things from it.

Mr. Katzenstein conducts a unique business. He deals only in tree seed, importing and exporting thousands of pounds of tree and shrub seed every year.

His firm has been in business in Atlanta since 1897 and is the oldest firm in the United States that deals exclusively in tree and shrub seed.

It sends American seed throughout the world and brings back tree seeds from all parts of the world for distribution in this country.

Of this interesting business Mr. Katzenstein says: "The most discouraging feature today is that so very much more attention is paid to reforestation abroad than in our own country."

When we know for instance how rapidly our forests of long leaf pine are disappearing and then find that the South is in demand for the seed of this valuable tree in enormous quantities it speaks for itself.

Some of their outlying offices are in the United States and others are abroad. Or, when we are aware that our chestnut forests will soon be a thing of the past and then are called upon to supply Japanese chestnuts by the ton to Southern Europe, the question of reforestation cannot even be mooted.

"Matters are improving however," Mr. Katzenstein says. "The U. S. Forest Service and many state forest departments have entered into the practical solution of the reforestation problem."

short holes, Bobby scored four, one over par on account of the shot from the green. Leaving the sixteenth after missing his three, the gallery, Diegel and Bobby realized that it was practically necessary for him to play the remaining two holes in par or better to qualify.

On the seventeenth he got away from the tee in good shape but his second was short of the green and his third, a chip shot, left at least fifteen feet from the cup. Bobby was visibly worried, but not half so nervous as the crowd, which was pulling hard for him. When he sank that putt, the ball hanging threateningly on the edge of the cup before finally disappearing, there was a burst of applause which was deafening. Bobby grinned and lit a cigarette. A large persimmon man with a big white handkerchief was again heard to remark, "clay will tell" as he wiped his forehead with a large handkerchief.

Some Easy Salting.
On the eighteenth Bobby had a terrific salted straight down the fairway, he was on the green in two holes, but he missed this by inches and went down with a four giving him a 77.

Diegel, playing a struggling game all the way through, had a par five from the green on the eighteenth. He missed this by inches and went down with a four giving him a 77.

back, and even better than his brother Pat, the former Irish champion, who tied with Whitney with a 73 for Tuesday's lowest score.

Duncan might easily have been four or five strokes lower than his twenty-two. Like all of the leaders, with the possible exception of Barnes, Duncan was off on his putting.

He missed four or five putts of six feet or less which would have given him birdies on holes he made in par. His approach shots to the green were miraculous, the ball invariably dropping close to the pin and on one occasion rolling into the hole after a difficult pitch shot from a green trap.

Had his putts been dropping, there is no knowing what score he might have made. However, that's just one of those little things about this game.

Evans Comes Back.
"Chick" Evans, the reigning amateur champion, playing his first round over the course, found himself in a precarious position when he reached the green on the eighth hole. A spectacular recovery on No. 5, after he had driven into the rough, put him second in the bunch. He played short of the green on his third and played over the green on his fourth, but he recovered himself and played a par five from the green on the eighth hole.

Of course, there will be tremendous interest in the matches in which the Englishmen participate. Barnes, Mitchell, Duncan and Hutchinson, in fact, are the great four upon whom bets are being made now by those picking the winner.

HUMAN INSISTS HUDSON IS SLAYER

BY PUZZY WOODRUFF.
Staff Correspondent The Constitution.
Albany, Ga., July 20.—(Special.) "You can keep me here from now until doom's day, right here in this jail, and I'll still tell you that Glenn Hudson killed my children. If you want to tell me I could walk out of here, I'll tell you that I'll change what I've told you, I wouldn't budge. For I've been telling the truth."

That was the reply made by Mrs. Glenn Hudson, the mother of the two slain children of Dougherty county, to the accusations made by her husband that he had taken the lives of her own boys.

As Sheriff Fort Traver recounted Hudson's accusations to her, the woman would dumbly shake her head and mutter, "Lord, have mercy, 'good Lord' and 'the truth ain't in him.'"

She is a pitiful enough figure there in that jail. She wears a faded, old-fashioned dress and a much worn shawl. During the long conversation, which lasted nearly an hour, she kept repeating the words, "I don't know what happened to the little run-down farm that she and Hudson were trying to make a living from, there wasn't the suggestion of a tear in her eyes."

Appears Unemotional.
Even when she described that dramatic scene of her sitting in frozen horror as the screams of her children made horrid the fearful atmosphere of the farm, even when she recounted the hearing of the fatal shots, there wasn't the breath of emotion in her narrative.

She is perhaps 25 years old. It is possible that the horrors of the past week have dulled all her sensibilities, but only once did she mention her children with any feeling.

That was when she explained how her love for them and her desire to keep them with her always had led her to desert the home she had in Alabama to go into Georgia, penniless, to seek her fortune.

"I was living at Columbia, Alabama," she said, "and I'll admit that I wasn't living right, but I was providing for the children, and they were too young to know. Long about last December the chief of police of Columbia came to me and told me that he knew that I wasn't doing right and ought not to be raising the children. He told me that he was going to have them turned over to some other folks to raise."

That was why I left Alabama. I didn't have anything to leave on and I left and came over to Georgia. Then I married Hudson and I've lived right ever since. I know I've done a lot of wrong but I have lived right by this man. I can swear to that."

Taking up her husband's accusation she told the sheriff that the foundation for the murders was laid the night before.

"I had asked him why he didn't go into Albany and get a job, and that made him furious. He stamped and swore at me and the children for a long time. I didn't hardly sleep all that night."

"The next morning, though I was up early and got my breakfast ready, then he and the big boy went down to the pasture to stab the bull. They came back to the house together. He told me he was going to take the boy down about a half hour ahead of him."
